

PodHawk 1.62 released

Posted by Peter on 2 May 2010

I have today released PodHawk 1.62.

The main changes from PodHawk 1.61 are:

>> The Facebook option now supports the new Facebook authorisation process. Existing users who have a Facebook application running off PodHawk need to upgrade as the old authorisation process will cease to work after the end of June 2010. There are, alas, two extra fields to complete in the Facebook section of the "settings" page - blame Facebook, not me!

>> The Facebook canvas page and the app tab now support paging - there are next page/previous page links so that users can page through your podcasts.

>> In recording page 2, you now have an option to classify a post as "iTunes explicit" even if your feed as a whole is not classified as "explicit" (explicit = drugs, sex or bad language!)

>> There are also a few bug fixes, including fixes to the counting scripts to deal with the problem of phantom downloads; and a new directory podhawk/helperapps which you need ONLY if you are running PodHawk on a Windows server - see howtoupdate.txt in the download package.

Happy podcasting!
